THE INTERNAL REVENUE.

Important Amendmenets—Proposes to Reduce the Tax Fifty Millions—The Points of Reduction.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—It was stated some days ago that the Ways and Means Committee would probably report the amended internal revenue bill the week. There first intention was to port the amended internal revenue bill this week. There first intention was to embody the changes in the rates of duly in one bill, and the changes in the inethod of assessment and collections in another bill. They, however, concluded to report on the whole subject in one general bill, the preparation of which delays their report. It is now probably that it will be made sometime next week. The committee have come to the conclusion that the burden of taxation may safely be reduced fifty millions of dollars, and have determined to so amend the law as to reduce to that amount. In making this reduction, they follow the rule of exempting, as much as possible, raw materials entering into general consumption. Altogsther the committee have not yet completed their labors, it is understood that the following, among other changes, that the following, among other changes, will be made: The additional tax on matufactores, imposed by the act of last winter, will be abrogated, so that it will stand at five per cent., as in the first taw. The tax on all articles of clothing will be largely reduced, and a license amounting to about one per cent. only will be required. The free list will comprise the following articles: Slaughtered animals, lead, copper, brass and other metals; ingots, stubs, pig fron; certain agricultural implements, such as plows, harrows, rakes, fanning mills, pitchforts, and all paints; all manufactured oils, except those made from coal; all mineral waters; all articles used by stereotypers and lithographers; lime, cement, brick and starch. The two and a half per cent. tax on gross railroad receipts is repealed, as are all internal duties on coal. The tax on crude petroleum will be tax on gross initional duties on coal. The tax on crude petroleum will be largely reduced, if not entirely taken off. That op whisky will not be changed. The tax on cotton is still in doubt. It is proposed to make if five cents per pound, but manufacturers insist on a drawback on goods for export which is strongly resitted by many members from the agricuttural districts. There is also doubt as to indome tax. The Committee at one time agreed to the exemption of four hundred dollars for single men, six hundred dollars for married men without families, and fifmarried men and for each chilld in a exemption of four innuired dollars for married men, six hundred dollars for married men, without families, and fifty dollars additional for each child in a family, with a uniform rate of five per cent, on all above these exemptions; but is quite likely that this scale may be changed before the birl is reported. The licenses for tailors, milliners and mantuamakers will be abrogated, as perhaps will also be those for shoemakers and blacksmiths. The repeal of internal revenue taxes on paper, books, types and ink, and whatever enters into the manufacture of books and newspapers will also be recommended. The reductions generally are not quite so sweeping as these recommended by the Internal Revenue Commissioner, but it has been the aim of the committee to repeal many of the small taxes, which bring in little revenue, and are expensive and vexatious.

To see a person in church nodding—apparently (from a back view) in approbation of the minister's opinions—is not such a rare sight in the city, ilough more common, perhaps, in the country. If seats in church were constructed atter the pattern of those in St. Phillip's Chapel, England, built long before the time of Henry VIII., sleeping in church would be attended with difficulty, not to say danger. These seats are so fixed upon hinges that those who sit on them can only maintain their position by balancing themselves with care, and resting their elbows on the seat arms; so that if the old manks who used them dropped along the service the seat came forward and pitched them headlong on the floor, may, if they only dozed and nodded the least in the world, the hard oaken back, and made noise exough to attract the attention of the whole congregation. In our day, however, comfortable seats may be retained, provided we have lifetike preaching and thorough ventilation in the church. If the cerbonic said gas generated on one Sunday is carefully alut up for respiration on the succooding Sunday, of course the congregation will experience the natural somulatorus effects, and the minister bilmant will most likely be monotonously soporific.

Conversation is a game in which all mankind are our competitors. Rules of conversation:

You must not be leaky.

Rules of conversation:
You must not be leaky.
Beware of jokes—inestimable for sauce, corruption for food.
Never name sickness—beware of unmuzzing a valetudinarian.
Sentiment makes life sweet and tolerable; but there are those who, seeing that sentiment pleases, try to imitate it; they love poetry—O, they adore poetry; and roses; and a cavadry regiment; till they make a lovely thing hateful by their affection of it.
When people come to see us, we foolishly chatter, lest we be inhospitable. Things said for conversation's sake, are chalk eggs.
Never "talk shop" before company. The way to have large occasional views is to have large pabitual views. When men ask your opinion, don't stand on tip-toe and pump your brains. To be overthrown in conversation—that is the benefit.
Society seems to have agreed to treat realities as fictions, and fictions as realities.
Forcing nature costs too much; what

The Spring Elections.

From the Berkley Union.

We perceive a general movement in the copperhead camp all over the State to secure the more important township offices, as preliminary to carrying the higher and more influential positions in the State government. Already are they busy at work in every township in this county effecting an organization for the purpose of seigning upon the offices of Supervisor and Inspector of elections. They persuade their friends that these positions being carried they can disregard the registry law and by a disloyal board of Supervisors make returns of the Objects and purposes of this act of legislature. But we have confidence in our people that they will not indolently let them steal a march upon us and take by default these important minor offices. Almost every thing depends upon the proper selection of Supervisors and Inspectors of elections. The Board of Supervisors are a very important body—they are the legislature of the county, and upon their loyalty and wisdom depends the proper administration of the local and financial interests of the county. We think no office requires greater care in selecthas taken measures to form a society for the agitation of Canadian independence.
